Preface

We, Women & Child Welfare Society(WCWS), with its headquarters located in the city of Cuttack, is a not-for-profit organization Registered on 23rd September1995 Under the Societies Act, 1860 under working towards the overall development of deprived communities the poor and marginalized sections of the society in the State. Working for the last two decades to ameliorate the condition of poor and deprived classes, the initiatives undertaken by the Society are specially directed to bring wellbeing for women, children, youths and general public in the broader perspective with active community participation are involved in educating road users on using roads with utmost safety. In the process, we empower them with knowledge on general safety, road signs, road markings, rules, and acts. We aim to reduce such road accidents in India to the maximum extend possible.

The Annual Report on Road Safety of Women and Child Welfare Society (WCWS), Cuttack is placed before you. Above the two decades-plus mission, vision, commitments, action components and implementations on road safety activities by WCWS are comprehensively presented in the Report. Road accidents & safety no more remains the other man's concern like in pre90's. Explosive growth of human population and vehicle numbers, increasing diversified economic activities, heterogeneous mix of vehicle class on roads not only led to faster mobility of people on roads, but also increased the risks of traffic hazards like road accidents in the country. These factors made road accidents & safety every body's concern in last three decades. Accident on road is a global concern present day. Safety on road is a global issue. By dimension the density of roads & highways; the number and types of vehicles and even the number of road accidents are visibly higher in advanced countries than the developing countries like in India. But by severity (fatality rate), the developing nations including India lead the world with much higher number of human deaths on road every year.The challenge grips Indian States more and more in every advancing year even after developments in road infrastructure, vehicle technology and stringent enforcements on roads by the governments, corporate houses ,civil society organizations, institutional mechanisms etc. Ministry of Road Transport and Highways: Govt. of India. Road accidents have become public health and enrormous economic loss issues in recent years. The crux of the solution area in road safety is ingrained in the awareness and education on road safety in perspective manner. Odisha State has been a victim of such a crucial and sensitive issue of road accidents since long years.

WCWS along with very few civil society organizations took the lead role in the State towards road safety measures since mid -90's particularly in the field of awareness and educate to the general public. WCWS played multidimensional role. It identified the vulnerable road users ,particularly school & college students, youth drivers of age group 15-18 years, 2-wheeelers & 3-wheelers, taxi drivers, HMV drivers, hazardous goods vehicle drivers, students of highway side institutions. It implemented all types of programmes of action components of education & awareness on road safety modules including electronic, paper and social media coverage across the State. It developed many case studies on road safety. It made exposure visits to other States and countries to learn and apply advanced & innovative road safety measure. It remains an active member of many state & regional level road safety committees. The Annual Report on Road Safety Activities of Women & Child Welfare Society, Cuttack embodies the major activities on road safety being undertaken by WCWS since 1998-99.

Let us preserve road safety as a way of life.

Streets for Life #Love30

THE GLOBAL GOALS For Sustainable Development

STREETS FOR LIFE: FOR PEOPLE AND PLANET

On our streets, worldwide, where we walk, play and live, we call for action on speed. Low speed, livable streets are essential and urgent.

Urgent because low speeds save lives.

Urgent for public health, by making walking and cycling safer and more accessible, enabling and encouraging healthy lifestyles. Livable streets are more crucial than ever as we respond to COVID-19.

Urgent for the Global Goals and for our climate, as a key that unlocks a virtuous cycle of zero carbon active travel, shifting from car dependence, enabling thriving public transportation, cleaner air and lower CO_2 emissions.

Urgent for social and racial equity, as it is lower income and minority communities who are most exposed to high-speed traffic, and the road danger, environmental hazard and social exclusion it causes. Urgent for the rights of people with disabilities; for the elderly; for all who are vulnerable.

Urgent for our children and youth and vital for their wellbeing. They are most at risk on the streets where they live, play and travel to school. Every day 3000 children and young people are killed or seriously injured on the world's roads. A child hit by a car at 30 km/h (20 mph) can survive. Hit at 80 km/h (50 mph), most will die. Speed kills.

The 2020 Stockholm Declaration, adopted by governments worldwide, calls for a focus on livable streets and, in line with available evidence, a maximum road travel speed of 30 km/h where vulnerable road users and vehicles mix. Commitment to this approach must be at the forefront of the new Decade of Action for Road Safety to achieve the Global Goals.

Now is the time to urgently deliver on this call to action by reducing, designing and enforcing traffic speeds that are safe for everyone, everywhere, prioritizing low speed streets in all residential areas and near schools.

Streets for health. Streets for climate. Streets for people. We must act together to create #StreetsForLife.

PARTICIPATION IN 6th REGIONAL ROAD SAFETY CONFERENCE

The International Road Federation (IRF) India Chapter organized 6th Regional Road Safety Conference held at Pragati Maidan, New Delhi from 3rd to 5th October 2011. Mrs. Minati Bindhani, General Secretary at tended as delegate and actively participated in the deliberation. Distinguished guests like Mr.B.K.Chaturvedi Honble Member, Planning Commission, Mr. Arvinder Singh Lovely, Hon'ble Minister of Education, Transport, Gurudwar Election and Administration, Govt.of Delhi, Mr. K. K. Kapila, Chairm an, International Road Federation, Geneva Programme attended the programme. The 4th India Roads Conference 2011 (29-20 June) drew the attention of top industry houses, policymakers and independent consultants, researchers and analysts. With a potent and topical theme (road safety), the two-day conference looked at safety aspects from construction, maintenance, design of roads and vehicles, material and allied services. Topics and questions included legal and policy-related, technology and standards that should be adopted, what infrastructure and services are needed and available, and how to finance road safety. The conference drew attention of policymakers by contending that quality has been ignored in favour of volumes, and road safety at the cost of building a bare adequacy of transport infrastructure: only 46 per cent of roads are paved, and more than 1 lakh people killed each year in road accidents, at a rate of 16.8 per 1,000 people, and costing us Rs 30,000 crore-about three per cent of our GDP. Cities and highways are still being constructed sometimes without scientific ways of managing traffic. Lack of a regulatory and governing body was primarily blamed for the astronomical numbers, coupled with lack of public awareness-creation, documentation and services infrastructure. Chief Guest Raghav Chandra, Joint Secretary, Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MORTH), promised that his ministry will "take the agenda of road safety to its logical conclusion". He referred to the recommendations made on this subject by the Indian Roads Congress (IRC) and appealed to the attending industry experts to deliberate on it and provide him with feedback. Cost cannot determine quality, he reiterated, citing the example of the Wallajahpet-Poonamallee National Highway project in Tamil Nadu, where safety norms were about to be compromised (by cutting down the provision of a service road) to fit the project into the budget—the PPP Appraisal Committee had indicated that the cost of Rs 13 crore per km was too high and recommended that it be reduced to Rs 10 per km. After NHAI ambiguously cleared the project, the Cabinet Secretariat intervened and that safety compromise was averted.

Conference Chair S Sundar, a Distinguished Fellow at The Energy and Resources Institute (TERI), and former Secretary, Ministry of Surface Transport, Government of India, who had also chaired the Sundar Committee on Road Safety and Traffic Management, Ministry of Road Transport and Highways, reiterated the correlation between traffic growth and road fatalities, and lamented the lack of initiative on a road safety policy in India—as in many other developing countries. "Forgiving roads can be achieved" he said, "if safety standards are set, crash investigation data is made available." As his committee had done before, Sundar urged the ministry to establish a single agency—the National Safety Fund and Board—to govern and regulate road safety. States should commit to annual, quantified actionables in road safety, he recommended.
